

OSTEOPATHS ACT IN RUSSELL CASE

Society to Investigate Testimony of Member Against Mrs. Stillman.

PROFESSION IS STIRRED

Dismissal to Follow if Confidence of Patient Was Violated.

HEARINGS ARE ORDERED

Committee Will Go to Bottom of Proceedings Before Making Report.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. NIAGARA FALLS, May 7.—A committee of physicians, members of the Western New York Osteopathic Society, will investigate the conduct of Dr. Hugh L. Russell of Buffalo in connection with his appearance as a witness at the Stillman divorce hearings in New York. If the investigation shows that he revealed confidential information given him by a patient, the committee will recommend that he be dismissed from the organization.

This became known to-night when Dr. P. L. Weeger of Buffalo, following the annual meeting of the society, announced that the committee had been named. Dr. Andrew S. Wiley, president of the organization, heads the committee.

If necessary Dr. Weeger, who is a member of the committee, said, the three members will go to New York to obtain the information needed in the investigation. "The first duty of the committee," said Dr. Weeger, "will be to secure a copy of the testimony, if possible. We will also call upon Dr. Russell personally and ask him for his side of the story. It is the desire of the organization to make an absolutely fair investigation."

"If the committee finds that Dr. Russell on the witness stand or in any professional capacity revealed confidential information imparted to him by a patient in the course of his professional duties, or that he violated well established ethics of the osteopathic profession, a recommendation will be made for his dismissal from membership in the society. Such a recommendation, however, will have nothing to do with his right to practice."

MRS. STILLMAN PLANS TO NAME MORE WOMEN

To Amend Answer and Make Accusations Against Two.

Mrs. James A. Stillman's lawyers, having set forth their opinion of that member of opposing counsel who made possible the publication of the Beauvais letters, were busy yesterday perfecting their client's defense and saying that there is no more mystery regarding Mr. Stillman's case. They say that the letters and Dr. Hugh Russell's testimony comprise the banker's case, and that both will have to bear up under a great mass of contradictory testimony to maintain a permanent place in the record.

It became known yesterday that when the hearings are resumed, on or about May 19, former servants in the Stillman household will be produced to identify some of the letters not yet admitted by the referee. It is expected that a woman who used to be Mrs. Stillman's maid will be asked to identify three or four of the letters as those she saw in Mrs. Stillman's desk.

The defense proposes to name two additional women as co-respondents with Florence Lawlor Leeds. Their names are withheld, but they will be specified in Mrs. Stillman's second amendment to her original answer. One of these women is described as a young person whose last dealing with Mr. Stillman was the acceptance of $6,000 from him. She is alleged to have demanded more. The other young woman is said to be a certain Mabel, and to have been on intimate terms with the banker during 1917, 1918 and 1919. She is credited with having put a considerable amount of Mr. Stillman's money to various patriotic uses. It was reported that from one source or another the detectives have caught glimpses of at least ten women in their investigation into the banker's past life.

Not the least of the worries of Mr. Stillman's lawyers just now is the attitude of Florence Lawlor Leeds. It was learned yesterday from a person in a position to know, that Miss Leeds fears that when the smoke of battle clears away she will find herself regarded as only a memory. The former ornament to the Chicken Chorus at the Century has said that if she is not assured she is not to be lost in the general shuffle to come, she will go into court to demand her rights.

Mrs. Stillman's attitude toward the window and keyhole witnesses from Canada is that she is being made the victim of a rather clumsy frameup. She is said to have told her lawyers that her daughter, Anne, occupied the adjoining room and that only a curtain hung between the rooms and the discovery of the house will show that it would not have been possible to see the described scenes from the window indicated by the plaintiff's witnesses.

Moreover, she claims that further evidence of her husband's alleged conspiracy against her is shown in a frustrated attempt to place a dictaphone in her apartments in the Pocantico Hills house. It is said that she discovered the electrician laying the wires and that he frankly told her what he was doing when she unexpectedly arrived in the house and saw him at work.

Pred Beauvais has decided that it would embarrass Mrs. Stillman if he came to New York. However, he says, it is for her to decide. If she needs him, he says, he will come south. Having made several investigations at the request of Mrs. Stillman's attorneys, Beauvais has put everything he knows about the case in affidavit form and has forwarded it to Stanchfield & Levy. It is an extensive document, taking the nature of a history of his association with the Stillman family.

CERVANTES LETTER FOUND.

DIVORCE GRANTED TO MRS. G. L. MORGAN

Interlocutory Decree Filed in White Plains—$500 Monthly Alimony.

Supreme Court Justice J. Addison Young has granted an interlocutory decree of divorce to Mrs. Grace L. Morgan of the Hotel Embassy, Seventieth street and Broadway, from Charles Morgan, a stock broker. The judgment was filed on April 25 with the Supreme Court in White Plains, and efforts were made to keep the decree a secret.

Jacob M. Grossman, lawyer, of 1270 Broadway, appeared for Mrs. Morgan and there was no defense. Oscar H. Cacciola served the summons and complaint on Mr. Morgan at the Hotel Breslin on February 19. Mrs. Morgan will receive $500 a month alimony until the final judgment is signed, when, according to a stipulation signed by Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, Mr. Morgan will give his wife a lump sum of $10,000 as permanent alimony and in lieu of all future payments.

Mrs. Morgan is given custody of their son, Richard, 15 years old. The couple were married in Manhattan on December 20, 1903, and lived together until April, 1920. Mrs. Morgan testified that previous to the separation Mr. Morgan spent about $75,000 a year in maintaining his home.

One of the principal witnesses against Mr. Morgan was John Anderson, assistant manager of a Detroit hotel. He testified that in August, 1920, Charles Morgan registered there with an unidentified woman as man and wife.

SUIT FACTORY DAMAGED.

HAMMONTON, N. J., May 7.—Fire damaged the factory of the Hammonton Suit Company in Bellevue avenue early today. The police believe the fire to have been of incendiary origin. About a month ago radical speakers who announced to organize workers in some of the new factories here were put out of the city by police order.

MENTAL TESTS FOR WOMEN IN BEDFORD

Classification of Reformatory Inmates Is Started.

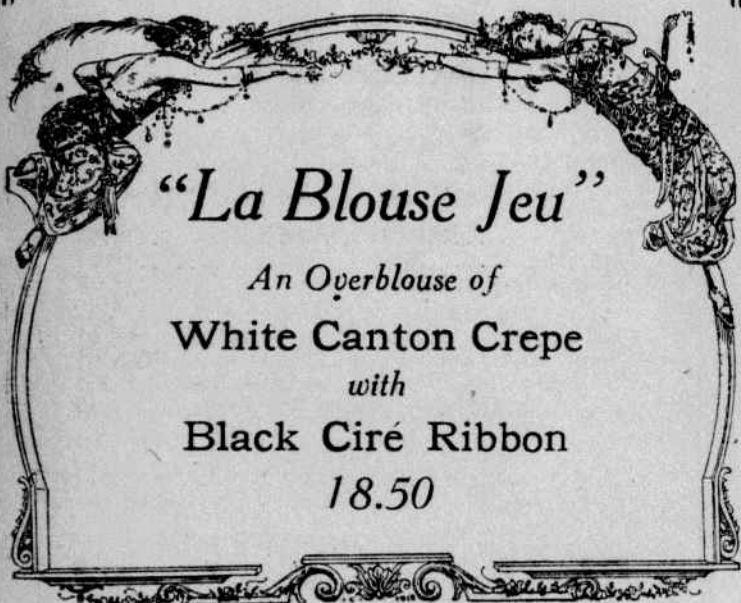

Major Amos T. Baker, new superintendent of the State Reformatory for Women in Bedford, yesterday began the task of examining and classifying prisoners as to their mentality.

Major Baker, who is a psychiatrist, estimates that it will take thirty days to complete the classification. One of the questions propounded to a prisoner under the test was: "If you were on your way to school and found that you might possibly be late, what would you do?" A person having the normal mentality of a child 5 years or upward is presumed to be able to answer this question satisfactorily.

One of the objects of the mental classification of prisoners is to enable attendants to distinguish between disturbers who are mentally irresponsible for their conduct and those who are just devilish. Major Baker expects to be able to test about eight prisoners a day.
